Summary

I am a location sound recordist for TV and film based in Dublin. I have been recording sound since 2010, based in London from July 2013 to June 2017, before moving back to Dublin. I have experience across a range of factual and drama productions, in both Ireland and the UK. I provide a friendly, professional and efficient service, as well as the equipment, which allows producers and directors to rest assured that audio is being taken care of on their production.
